

Climate and Health

- where are we going and how are we getting there?

Kathryn Bowen

Professor and Deputy Director (Knowledge Translation) Melbourne Climate Futures
Melbourne Law School

Professor of Environment, Climate and Global Health
Melbourne School of Population and Global Health
The University of Melbourne

A leading, internationally-recognised specialist on the science and policy of sustainability (particularly climate change) and global health issues. Kathryn is regularly commissioned by international bilateral and multilateral agencies (e.g. WHO, UNEP, UNDP, ADB, GIZ, DFAT) to co-design solutions for sustainable futures. Kathryn works to empower colleagues and decision-makers and collaborate with diverse stakeholders to drive positive outcomes. Her career highlight to date has been her nomination by the Australian Government to be a Lead Author on the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), Health Chapter.

In this seminar I will provide a snapshot of main climate change and health issues, as well as sharing some of my work and background.
